

Contents

Arianna Fermani – The multifocal approach as an assumption of the complexity of reality: a few introductory insights	7
1. The point of assuming an “optical paradigm”, 7 – 2. “Insofar as possible”: the assumption of the sense of the limit and its heuristic function, 10 – 3. Black and white: painting a polychrome but not blurred picture, 16 – 4. “In itself” and “for us”, 20 – 5. The “in relation to” perspective, 26 – 6. Conclusive remarks: Not relativism, but a game of relations, 28
Francesca Eustacchi – At the Source of the Multifocal Approach: Relations in the Sophistic Context	33
1. Sophistry vs Eleatism, 33 – Protagoras , 34 – Protagorean antilogies , 37 – Gorgias’ Treatise On not-being , 40 – 2. Not relativism, but a game of relations, 44 – The synonymic art of Prodicus: relations and words , 48 – 3. The aspect of praxis , 51 – Ethics: relations and opinions , 55 – 4. A final example: the Dissoi Logoi , 57 – 5. A polyhedral view of reality, 63
Arianna Fermani – Man is unhappy in many ways. Some examples of the multifocal approach inside the platonic reflection	67
1. «Where are you going?» Unhappiness as the outcome of a aimless life, 68 – 2. “Suffered” unhappiness: life beset by unhappiness and pain, 69 – 3. Unhappiness “troubles”: disorder and excess as a cause for the destruction of life, 71 – «Here you are, you wretches, fill yourselves with this fine spectacle!» (Resp. IV, 440A): unhappiness as lack of self-control , 74 – Unhappiness as lack of metretics , 77 – 4. «Where do you come from?». Unhappiness as mistaking physis, 78 – “In itself” and “for us”: why the golden ladle is useless , 80 – 5. Final considerations, 81
Maurizio Migliori – Plato: a nascent theory of complexity	85
1. Perception, 87 – Perception in Timaeus and Theaetetus , 88 – Some paradoxical elements , 91 – The role of the soul , 94 – The role of perception , 95 – 2. The multi-faceted evaluation of the soul, 99 – The body-soul relation and the oneness of the human being , 100 – The multiple structure of the soul , 102 – The simultaneous presence of different approaches , 105 – Some clarifications , 107 – Survival and immortality of the soul , 109 – 3. The whole-all the parts-many parts-parts nexus, 113 – The one-many feature of the (simple) ideas , 113 – The theoretic concepts , 115
Lucia Palpacelli – The multifocal approach in Metaphysics V	119
1. The “oddity” in Metaphysics V , 119 – 2. Metaphysics V : a multifocal lexicon, 120 – Jaeger’s genetic method applied to Book V , 120 – Metaphysics V in light of the multifocal approach , 122 – 3. “Nature” and

“Substance”: highly diverse but not mutually exclusive meanings, 123 – Nature, 124 – Substance, 129 – 4. “One”, “Prior and subsequent” and “whole”: the multifocal approach in the progressive detailed analysis of meanings, 133 – “One” in an accidental sense, 133 – “One” in an absolute sense, 135 – “One” as a numerical principle, 139 – Prior and posterior, 141 – The Whole, 147 – 5. Final considerations, 149

Arianna Fermani – Some examples of the multifocal approach in Aristotle’s Ethics 153

1. Introductory considerations, 153 – 2. For a multi-focal approach to the concept of “friendship”, 154 – Preliminary observations, 154 – First scenario: friendship as virtue, 155 – Second scenario: friendship as that which accompanies virtue, 157 – Third scenario: friendship as a passion, 158 – Fourth scenario: friendship as that which accompanies passion, 159 – Fifth scenario: friendship as a good and friends as external goods, 160 – Following the profiles of friendship, 161 – Final thoughts on the “figure” of friendship, 164 – 3. Views on the concept of vice, 164 – Vice as excess and deficiency, 165 – Excess and deficiency “in” vice: the case of bestiality, 167 – Bestiality as “other” than vice, 169 – Excess in vice and “absolute vice”, 172 – Vices “in deficiency”: the example of paltriness, 174 – Analysis of the connection between vice, error, and blame, 176 – Conclusions, 177 – 4. An example “extreme”: the case of suicide, 178 – First scenario: suicide as act of disrespect for oneself and the polis, 179 – Second scenario: suicide as a respectful act toward oneself and the polis, 182 – Conclusions, 184

Lucia Palpacelli – Time and the Stars: Two examples of multifocal approach in Aristotle’s works on physics 187

1. A few preliminary considerations, 187 – 2. The dual concept of time in the dual functionality of the now, 190 – The two meanings of “now”: same and different, 190 – Infinite and finite time, 199 – 3. The number can be defined in two ways: the two-sided nature of the relationship between time and motion, 203 – 4. Final considerations on time, 205 – 5. Animate and inanimate stars, 205 – Either as the cause of movement, 206 – The necessitation of the soul, 207 – 6. The metaphysical and physical planes: a comparison, 213 – The movement of the heavens and stars in Metaphysics XII, 7-8, 214 – 7. Final deliberations on the animation of stars and the cosmos, 217

Elisabetta Cattanei – In conclusion	221
Index locorum	223
Index nominum	231
Index rerum	235
Bibliography	237
Editors	245